

The truth about the ancient Macedonians

Wednesday, 05 December 2007

The ancient Macedonians were not a race of uncivilized barbarians, as Demosthenes and other Greeks suggested, but a people with exquisite taste and a highly developed culture. Watch what the excavations in Vergina truly revealed, in a documentary produced in Greece in 1977, with commentary by Eugene Borza, the renowned ancient Macedonia scholar from the Pennsylvania State University. The documentary was produced in Greece, long before before the current "Macedonia is Greek" campaign started, taking down the truth as its first victim.
